112 St. Louis 10 West Street, an opinion of his practical knowledge always given him.

The best optician in Boston.

He has a large number of patients.

They are all satisfied with his work.

A. W. Raymond says that the Indians were very friendly. Many squaws took part in the fight, and behaved themselves well.

Nothing but a friendly hand was held over them.

They were given a hearty welcome.

The relief has decided to purchase 250

horses of 1000 and 1000 hams for distribution

among the Indians.

It is now believed that the Indian war will be over by next week.

There is no more to do than to wait and see what the Indians do.

They are to be left alone.

The Grand Concert of June 28.
At the Skating Rink last evening, was a brilliant musical event, but we regret to say that the attendance was not large as the merits of the artists and the object of the entertainment deserved, the number present being estimated at from 600 to 800, filling about half of the spacious area of the Rink. It is not to be inferred from this that public response to the effort of the Post committee to procure funds for the excursion of the courtauds to the grand encampment at Portland, that there is a diminution in the very general interest of our residents in the welfare of the soldiers—a sentiment which has been so warmly expressed at previous entertainments arranged by Col. Lovett and his friends, as well as in many other ways—but it is to be regretted that the comrades could not have had a rousing send-off to the entertainment by the ship which was hoped for through the entertainment of last evening, the receipts from which will bear out the expenses.

Brief allusion may be made to the features of the entertainment, but it may well be left to an expert particular the merits of the vocal performances of the artists. The duet is Mrs. Dickson and Mr. Adams, "Tenderness," and the cavatina from "Mignon" and the quartet on "The Rocks," by Miss Lord, were especially received while the solo, "When the heart is young," by Mrs. Richardson, German Song and "Ode to Joy," by Mr. Adams, "A Mariner's Home in the Sea," Mr. Cornell, the trio "Break, break, break," by Mrs. Richardson, Miss Lord, and Adams, and the quartette from Semiramide, were given with fine musical taste and expression, the soloists being complimented specially. Mr. C. N. Allen sustained his well deserved reputation as violinist. In the Concerto, the Hungarian Dance was performed, and was greeted with hearty applause. Mr. Geo. B. Ford is one of the most popular of soloists, and his depiction of the predictions of the bewildered Frenchman in search of his hotel at "No. 5 Collect street," "Bridget's Death as Hamlet," and "That Little Piece," in which the contrywoman with a club desired to interview with the journalist who told the "little piece" recommending a deluge of water upon the "spine of the back" of a horse to sell him off, was full of humor and added much to the pleasure of the concert. Prof. Howard M. Dow, as accompanist, gave his usual able assistance to the vocalists, and the entertainment was in all respects one of great merit.

Masonic.
By order of R. W. Frank P. Arnold, D. D. G. M., of the twenty-fifth Masonic District, a Lodge of Instruction for lodges in the district was opened at 9 o'clock this (Friday) morning, in Masonic Hall, East Weymouth, and continued during the day. The work was exemplified in the presence of W. Bro. James M. Gleason, Grand Lecturer; M. W. Grand Master, A. H. Howland Jr., had expressed his intention to be present. A collation was furnished about 1 o'clock, and to enable proper arrangements to be made for catering, all who intended to be present were requested to notify the Secretary before May 27. Orphans' Home Lodge exemplified the "Third Degree." Many Master Masons were present.

Weymouth Waterworks.
There has been 27,454 feet, or a little over five miles of pipe laid thus far since the commencement of this spring.

Quite a hole has been opened in digging through Broad street, but with the steam drill, dynamite and a gang of hand drillers, Mr. Jockow is making quick work of it.

Most of the material has arrived for the stand-pipe and the foundation for the same has been begun.

The foundation walls for the pump house are nearing completion, and under the direction of Mr. Barker have been well built and look as though they might stand as long as the granite hills.

Mr. Lyon is progressing slowly, but surely, in the deep cut at the pond, laying the foundation for the bridge.

About 300 men are now employed on the works and the work is progressing very favorably all along the line.

The digging of trenches for the water pipes frequently bring to light relics of past days, covered by the accumulations of fillings of the public highways. On Union street a rail fence was found and the ancient ledge was struck, at six feet depth, in which were found several adit holes.

We are indebted to Supt. Inman for the above items and for previous favors.

Cemetery Improvement.

The superintendent, with his gang of men have been the past few weeks actively engaged in repairing the driveways and walks in the Village Cemetery, and nearly every lot will be beautified with plant and flowers.

Mr. Clark has been engaged in the work, and he has done a good job.

It is expected that the material will arrive in time to make the date of the next meeting in about one week.

For the Gazette.

MEMORIAL DAY.

By Mr. E. T. Barnes.

Moved by one inquisitive, in come

With mortal trial and muffled drum,

Above these honored graves to lay

These sacred bones of heroes long

Years have rolled by since slaves' hands

Clashed freely at our own fair land,

And here their bones repose in peace.

Till then hills caught up the shout,

And then hills listening to the cry,

Saw them fall like leaves in autumn.

Then came shock the southern plain,

And blood flowed free as summer rain;

Then came the roar of battle's roar,

With tender thoughts and blossoms given.

Memory shall not change or cease,

Until the world is won to freedom.

So still the dead lie quiet,

No steel cold blades kill them;

But human ones, whose quiet lies,

Are not to be disturbed.

From clang to clang as they turned away,

Forsaken homes dearer day by day;

And then the dead, in silent night,

O'er rain, regret, went forth to die.

What more could stoned heroes do,

Than march to battlefield or stake,

And give their lives for Freedom's sake?

The old cemetery on Pleasant St.,

is a tomb which for a greater portion of its time has its doorajar, the being no lock thereon. Inside are seated about human skulls and bones

and there is also in the tomb the body of a lady who died last October, the severing of the lid of whose coffin have been removed and the lid split,

Whether it is the work of boys or persons searching for jewelry supposed to be in the lid, or whether it is done by the thief who deeply mourns the loss of a child he has lost.

He can be found out, they should be punished

to the full extent of the law.

There should be notices posted in the cemetery and the driveways, warning all persons against taking flowers or committing any unlawful act in the vicinity of these graves.
